Landon Claims F.D.R. Would 'Freeze Jobs'

Declares He Would Put Department On A Business Basis

Opeka, Kas., Sept. 29.—(P)—Gov. M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, said tonight that President Roosevelt's recent civil service order tended "to freeze the tenure of postal 'job holders' and added that if elected he would put the department "on a business basis."

It is my intention, as I have already indicated, "the nominee told reporters, "to select the most competent executive I can find to draft the job of putting the department (office) on a business basis."

Would it make any difference if a man were a Democrat or a Republican?" the governor was asked. "No, it wouldn't. One thing is certain, no man can be simultaneously a member of my cabinet and a man or a member of the national committee."

The governor talked with newsmen at a day devoted to campaigning and speech drafting. The conference was held in the large room of the executive mansion. He replied to questions, the came walked about.

The post office department came up in a press conference when Landon asked for comment on the statement of John D. M. Hamilton, national party chairman, that he would become postmaster general if the office were elected. Postmaster General James R. Farley is chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

"Is further evidence," Landon said of Hamilton's statement, "of the notion of the Republican party to throw its pledge for a merit system through the civil service in government?"

He later, he added, "the president's recent civil service order proved not to be a real step in the direction of a merit system. It is an effort to freeze the tenure of postal job holders."

The chief executive's order, issued July, governed the selection of "class postmasters."

"I declined to discuss cabinet positions in the event of his election," Landon said.

Seeing reporters, he had a number of advisers, including Charles P. Taft and Ralph A. Taft, on the campaign swing. He took him into Illinois, Michigan. Major addresses were made at Chicago October 9, 10, 11, 12 and Detroit 14.

Palestine Will Be Placed Under Martial Law

Great Britain Will Try To Subdue Uprising Of Arabs

London, Sept. 29.—(P)—Great Britain today decreed martial law for Palestine to subdue a six-month uprising of Arabs against Jewish immigration and land ownership.

Terrorism in the Holy Land has cost more than 200 lives since the Arabs declared a "general strike" last April to resist provisions of the British mandate over Palestine, which many of the country's 700,000 Arabs never recognized.

Actual proclamation of military rule was left to General Sir Arthur Wauchope, high commissioner for Palestine. It was believed martial law would be applied, at first, only to the most troublesome sections in hope the terrorists could be frightened into peaceful capitulation.

When in force it will invest Lieut. Gen. J. G. Dill, commander of the recently augmented military forces there, with virtual dictatorial power.

He will be authorized to impose any edict he deems necessary to preserve public order. He will be empowered to establish military courts to impose censorship, to order arrests, detentions and expulsions and deportations from the Holy Land.

The government announced the military courts would have supreme power and their verdicts would be "final" to challenge or review elsewhere.

Growing violence has been attributed to the inability of Arab moderate leaders to control their tribesmen. Since the general strike began last April 19, terrorism and open clashes between Arabs and British troops have resulted in the death of nine soldiers in fighting, of six in royal air force accidents, of 125 Arabs, 58 Jews and five Christians. More than 1,000 persons have been injured.

Certify Fund For Relief Purposes In Morgan County

Expect Horner to Sign New Legislation at Springfield Today

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—On the promise that Gov. Henry Horner would sign recently enacted relief legislation, the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission today certified $3,000,000 in state funds to Cook county and downstate governmental units.

After a long executive session, commission members decided to make the certification without taking into consideration local funds available for use in the various counties and townships—a system authorized by the legislation in a recent session.

Heretofore, the commission took the stand that receipts from sales of tax anticipation warrants against a special 30-cent relief levy, and certain local funds, were available to meet relief needs.

Of the total, which falls by $1,817,993, to meet the estimated needs for October, downstate received $1,008,355; the remainder going to Cook county.

Certificates included:

Adams $18,577; Champaign 10,081; McLean 21,229; Macou 18,463; Madison 52,227; Morgan 9,149; Peoria 36,666; St. Clair 63,805; Sangamon 36,323; Vermilion 24,796 and Winnebago 54,168.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—Governor Horner's office said tonight it expected him to sign the state's newest relief legislation here tomorrow. The bills, passed last week, make changes to help Chicago and some downstate communities raise local relief funds.

EARL BROWDER BARRED FROM TERRE HAUTE

Chief Of Police Says Communist Cannot Speak There

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 29.—(P)—James C. Yates, Terre Haute chief of police, served notice tonight he would not allow Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, to speak here.

Browder is scheduled to speak here tomorrow night.

The meeting was to have been held in the Indiana State Teachers College auditorium, and local Communist party officials threatened today to resort to court action if necessary in order to obtain use of the hall. They said President Ralph N. Toney of the Teachers College had sought to cancel the contract for the hall.

Although Chief Yates said, "I won't let Browder speak in Terre Haute," officials of the Communist party said the candidate would speak as scheduled and would hold a press conference tomorrow morning.

The meeting was to have been held in the Indiana State Teachers College auditorium, and local Communist party officials threatened today to resort to court action if necessary in order to obtain use of the hall. They said President Ralph N. Toney of the Teachers College had sought to cancel the contract for the hall.

Need Blood To Make Infantile Paralysis Serum

State Of Illinois Searching For Victims Of Dreaded Disease

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—The state of Illinois tonight searched for former victims of dreaded infantile paralysis for blood which may save the lives of more than 200 persons, mostly children, who are expected to fall prey in the next four weeks to the swiftly striking spinal disease.

The health department issued a general appeal to recovered victims who carried in their veins blood for the serum which is the only known cure for the disease which has swept the state in the last three months, leaving in its wake death and permanent deformities.

Two clinics for donors, one here Thursday, and another next Tuesday at East St. Louis were announced, and Dr. Frank Jirka, health director, said at least 100 donors were needed. From them the state hoped to secure 50 quarts of blood, a supply which the director said "should carry us through October."

He based his estimates for October needs on the present prevalence of the disease and records of previous epidemics. There were 215 new cases in September, he said, and October "generally exceeds September." For the year there have been 318 cases up to last week, compared with 157 a year ago, and less than 300 in 1931 when there was an epidemic of 707 cases.

"For two years we have been preparing for an epidemic similar to that of 1931," he said, "but the present prevalence has gone far beyond our fears. Our supply of serum is exhausted."

The state will pay $10 to each donor, but Dr. Jirka said in clinics earlier this month at Peoria and La Salle many donors "vigorously refused the money in their anxiety to help other victims."

Brooks Declares Farm Land Worth Over $75 An Acre

Republican Candidate For Governor Challenges Statement By FDR

Clinton, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—C. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor, challenged a statement he attributed to President Roosevelt that "no farm land in the United States today is worth more than $75 an acre" in a campaign talk prepared for delivery here tonight.

"The president," Brooks said, "at a conference with insurance companies urged co-operation with the federal lending agencies in limiting loans on farm land to $25 an acre. Roosevelt stated that good farm land in the United States was not worth more than $75 an acre, and pointed out 'horrible' examples where it sold for $125 and $150."

"The president said this was far too high, yet Illinois' share of the local, state and national debt equals $115 an acre."

After talking with farmers and small town bankers, I learned they felt that limiting loans to $25 would ruin two-thirds of the 214,000 farmers in Illinois."

"The president showed the Illinois farmer that Washington is as far removed in sympathy and understanding as in distance. We must return to control of Illinois affairs to an administration at Springfield that takes its orders from the people of Illinois."

CALL CONFERENCE

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—A call was issued today by Republican leaders of 11 midwestern states for a conference on plans to swing the majority of the 8,200,000 votes of naturalized citizens in the United States to Governor Alf M. Landon.

J. V. Houghtaling, assistant director of the naturalized citizens division of the Republican National Committee, said representatives from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Nebraska were expected here tomorrow for the session.

LEADERS OF RETREATING SPANISH ARMY ORDERED TO "SHOOT YOUR COWARDS"

With the Government Forces Retreating on Madrid, Sept. 29.—(P)—"Shoot your cowards!" the government tonight ordered its military leaders directing the retreat on Madrid.

"The battle is won by resistance, lost by running away," was the cry taken up by the newspaper El Socialista.

"Those who have even the slightest fear of the enemy throw away their guns and demoralize their comrades, laying the way open for the enemy advance on our capital."

"Such cowards must be shot down without trial!"

The government meanwhile countered these indications of desertions from its own ranks with declarations that 200 of the Fascist advancing on Madrid had come over to the Madrid side.

A vicious counter-attack, the government leaders asserted, was launched against the Fascists at Bargas, five miles outside Toledo on the 40-mile Toledo-Madrid highway.

(Reports at the insurgent headquarters in Burgos tonight said the Fascists had advanced seven miles from Toledo toward Madrid, and were driving a pincer-like maneuver on the Spanish capital. One column, the reports said, advanced on Illescas, 22 miles south of Madrid on the Toledo road, and another drove on Aranjuez, 28 miles southeast of Madrid.)

At Bargas, the government proclaimed, their forces raised the aged battle cry—"They shall not pass!"

In Madrid this week, after the fall of Toledo, newspapers declared they had not said "they shall not pass." What they really said, the newspaper agreed, was "they shall not march into Madrid."

The government leaders asserted their men at Bargas "mowed down column after column of advancing Fascists."

The government forces, it was said, were taking up strong positions along the insurgent line of march on Madrid.

The war ministry proclaimed the government forces had repelled an aerial bombardment at Ollas Del Rey, seven miles north of Toledo on the Madrid road.

Fifteen planes bombed them, the government said.

Leaders tonight renewed their pleas for all able-bodied men to come to the defense of Madrid.

An official communique was issued asserting that government forces in "the north and northwest dominate the province of the Asturias and are now concentrating on Oviedo which they are attacking with the greatest violence."

Eleven Members Of Black Legion Are Convicted

Charged With Plotting Lynching Which Exposed Them

Detroit, Sept. 29.—(P)—Eleven members of the Black Legion were convicted today of plotting the lynching which exposed the existence of the secret terrorist society with its dreams of a moral and political dictatorship.

Seven of the band were convicted of first degree murder in the roadside "execution" last May 12 of Charles A. Poole, a verdict which carries with it a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment. The other four were convicted of second degree murder. They may be sentenced for any term of years up to or including life, in the discretion of the court.

The jury of nine men and three women filed back into the heavily-guarded courtroom of Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan with the verdict one hour and 25 minutes after beginning deliberations. Mrs. Rebecca Poole, 21-year-old widow of the man who was killed because of false gossip he had mistreated her, was among the spectators who waited tensely for the verdict.

Those convicted of first degree murder were "Colonel" Harvey Davis; Edwin D. Lee, Paul R. Edwards, Edgar Baldwin, and Urban Lipps, all of whom were present when Poole was shot to death by Dayton Dean as he pleaded vainly "there must be some mistake"; Lowell Rushing, accused of instigating the plot to "straighten Poole out," and John Bannerman, charged with setting out for the death scene with a rope with which Poole was to have been hanged.

Dean, who has pleaded guilty to murder, testified as a state witness that he opened fire on Davis' orders when an open draw-bridge prevented Bannerman from joining the "necktie party."

The jury which convicted Thomas R. Craig and Virgil Morrow of second degree murder, and Judge Moynihan found Albert Stevens and John S. Vincent, who had waived trial by jury, guilty in the same degree. The four were implicated in the Black Legion meeting preceding the killing at which the state charges the death plot was formulated.

SEIZE STILL

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—E. C. Yelchlow, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, today said agents in his district, embracing Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, had seized 22 illicit stills and arrested 30 persons since yesterday when the government began a nationwide drive against alcohol tax evaders, narcotics law violators and counterfeiters. Fourteen of the stills were within the Chicago city limits.

Survivors Of Alcazar Tell Of Horrors

Claim 600 Priests Were Massacred By Leftists

Talavera De La Reina, Spain, Sept. 29.—(P)—Bit by bit, the horrors of the 72 days siege of Toledo's Alcazar fortress came from the lips of the wasted and hysterical survivors tonight as their Fascist rescuers drove on to Madrid.

Tales of blood, courage and despair tumbled from mouths twisted with the agony of wounds.

Their eyes glazed with visions of the terror they had known for every hour of every one of 72 days, they talked of bullets, of shrapnel, of dynamite, of only horse flesh to eat, of only a quart of water a person a day, of poison gas and of women bearing children as the walls around them shook with blasts of death.

They told in voices hollow with 72 days of agony and privation of 600 priests whom they said were massacred by their Leftist enemies.

As they muttered their simple stories of what the 1,200 besieged men, women and children had borne, their comrades drove on toward Madrid, vowing death to the attackers of the Alcazar.

The Fascist legions were reported already seven miles along the 40-mile road from Toledo to Madrid, their speedy march covered by war planes which blasted government troops along the line of march.

Other insurgent war planes, the Alcazar survivors were told, bombed Madrid's airports.

They turned on bedside radios and heard the Seville announcer declare that "terrible days are ahead before Madrid falls."

"Seventy-two days of terror x x x," one wounded Fascist cadet mumbled over and over. "Seventy-two days of terror x x x."

Julio Gomez, 30-year-old civil guard, tossed on his cot and told how Fascist engineers within the fortress had saved all from being blown to bits by government-laid dynamite mines, charged with tons of T. N. T.

The engineers, he said, studied reports from the fortress sentries who heard the ominous b-r-r-r-rings of the drills below their self-imposed prison. They would then draw up plans of where the government mines were being laid and evacuate those sections of the citadel.

Plane Crashes At Naperville; Four Killed

Photographers On Ship Were Taking Pictures Of Streamline Train

Naperville, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—An airplane carrying photographers to take pictures of a streamline train crashed beside the railroad tracks tonight and burned four persons to death.

The dead:

Oscar Hanold, 28, of Chicago, the pilot of the ship.

William Schuessler, a young girl passenger, of Chicago.

Ralph Biddy, of Chicago, cameraman for the same firm.

The ship crashed and burned within 100 feet of the Burlington railroad tracks at almost the exact moment the streamliner, the Zephyr, was due to pass the spot.

It had been flying low, and plunged nose first into a field east of Naperville.

Firemen hurried to the scene, but arrived too late to save the wooden five-passenger craft. The bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Hanold had been hired to take the craft, property of the Bluebird Air Transport company, from the Chicago airport on a contract flight.

The two photographers and the girl, a former model employed as a script writer for the picture company, came from Detroit recently to live in Chicago, their employers there said.

The girl was not scheduled to make the flight, men at the airport disclosed, but she "talked herself into it."

George Huff In Grave Condition

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—George Huff, athletic director at the University of Illinois for 35 years, was in a grave condition tonight.

Two blood transfusions were given today in an effort to prolong the life of Huff who was operated for a stomach ailment last Saturday. He was placed in an oxygen tent after the second transfusion. He rallied after the first transfusion and it was said at Carle Memorial hospital that another probably would not be necessary. He grew worse shortly after noon, however, and the second transfusion was administered.

Huff, who is 64 years old, withstood the operation well, but his condition was aggravated by a lung involvement which developed yesterday.

It was reported that Wendell S. (Weenie) Wilson, a member of Huff's department, would be appointed acting athletic director tomorrow, to serve during the emergency. The report said Prof. Seward C. Slailey as director of the school of physical education, Huff, if he survives, would be given a year's leave of absence.

Frank V. Zintak To Stand Trial

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—Overruling a motion to quash the indictment, Criminal Court Judge Robert C. O'Connell today ordered Frank V. Zintak, ousted clerk of the superior court, to stand trial No. 2 on a charge of embezzling $25,500 in public funds.

Immediately after the motion was overruled, Zintak was arraigned and entered a plea of innocent.

In arguments on the motion, it was disclosed by defense attorney Stephen Love that he had information which he said led him to believe another indictment would be returned soon against his client.

Zintak withdrew as a Democratic candidate to succeed himself after the shortage was charged against him, and yesterday the county Democratic managing committee selected Victor Schlager, chief deputy coroner, to take his place.

Inquest Into Death of Youth Is Continued

Continuance Granted To Permit 2 Officers To Recover From Wounds

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—An inquest into the death of Norman Cravens, 21, of Danville, Ill., slain in a pistol battle with two policemen during an attempted tavern holdup, was continued today to Oct. 13.

The continuance was granted to permit the officers, Charles Stine and Nicholas Connelly, to recover from wounds inflicted in the duel so they might testify.

Cravens' two companions were driven off by the gunfire yesterday. Officers later seized Fred Meyers, 19, and Clarence Lukesch, alias Lucas, 19, and said they had accompanied Cravens in the foray.

Lukesch testified that the three only a quart of water a person a day, of poison gas and of women bearing children as the walls around them shook with blasts of death.

They told in voices hollow with 72 days of agony and privation of 600 priests whom they said were massacred by their Leftist enemies.

Head of Liquor Commission For Sunday Closing

Uniform Closing Hours Are Also Proposed By Arthur S. Smith

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—Chairman Arthur S. Smith of the Illinois liquor control commission today said he personally advocates Sunday tavern closing hours in all except the largest Illinois cities and uniform closing hours throughout the state.

Speaking at the 51st annual convention of the retail liquor dealers' protective association of Illinois, Smith said he believes six days a week is sufficient for tavern operation and Sunday closing is advisable for smaller or rural communities.

"It would not work out in Chicago or cities like Peoria or East St. Louis," he said, "but in smaller towns Sunday tavern operation involves intimate community life, back yard neighborliness, even morals, as well as business itself."

Uniform closing hours would aid law enforcement and eliminate "this thing of driving over to the next town for another drink after our bar closes," he said.

Smith urged the liquor retailers to keep minors out of their bars and follow all good practices likely to elevate the business "to your own ultimate good."

Delegates adopted a resolution by Arthur Nelson, Chicago, executive committee chairman, advocating federal law amendment to permit retailers to buy and sell liquor in bulk, as in pre-prohibition days. Copies were ordered sent all Illinois candidates for congress.

V. J. Moravec, Chicago, association president, said 150 delegates were registered. Cities represented by delegates included Rockford, Streator, Ottawa, Belvidere, Danville, Decatur, Kankakee, Joliet, Peoria, Pekin and Quincy.

F.D.R. OPENS CAMPAIGN AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.

President Repudiates Communist Support; Raps Republicans

Syracuse, Sept. 29.—(P)—President Roosevelt opened his campaign for another New Deal victory at the November election with a repudiation of Communist support and an assault on present and past Republican leadership.

Voicing confidence in the result of the campaign, Mr. Roosevelt told delegates to the New York state Democratic convention packed into every corner of the National Guard armory that the Republican leadership would "never comprehend the need for a program of social justice and of regard for the well being of the masses of our people."

A yelling, whistling throng greeted the president as he stepped onto the platform and chatted with Mrs. Roosevelt.

County placards dotted the Armory floor from which a thick smudge of tobacco smoke floated up to the roof arched by golden and black cloth.

In many respects the convention floor and atmosphere resembled the national party convocation in Philadelphia—bands blaring, crowds milling, county standards waving and noisy party enthusiasm. On the platform as the president spoke were Mrs. Roosevelt, Governor Lehman, re-nominated for another term at Albany earlier in the day, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Senator Wagner of New York, convention keynoter and Amelia Earhart, the aviatrix.

A great roar swept the auditorium as Governor Lehman mounted the rostrum and introduced the president as the man "who turned despair into hope and conquered and who restored prosperity to our country—a great American."

Communism the president described as a "false issue." He pointed to his record which he said showed a "clear and consistent adherence," not only to the letter but to the spirit of the American form of government.

Referring to the Republican command, he spoke of "these evaders" and said that "undercover" the leadership is the same as that of four years ago.

"The same lack of purpose of fulfillment—lies behind the promises of today," he said.

"You cannot be an old guard Republican in the East, and a New Deal Republican in the West. You cannot promise to repeal taxes before an audience and promise to spend more of the taxpayers' money before another audience."

"You cannot promise tax relief fee those who can afford to pay, and at the same time promise more of the taxpayers' money for those who are in need. You simply cannot make good on both promises at the same time."

The initial sentence of his prepared speech brought applause from the crowd crammed into the farthest reaches of the chamber. He said: "Tonight you and I join forces for the 1936 campaign."

Laughter and applause rolled through the Armory as he led up to the repudiation of Communism by observing that in this campaign another "red herring turns up."

A minute before, the assemblage of state party leaders had applauded alistered. Cities represented by delegates included Rockford, Streator, Ottawa, Belvidere, Danville, Decatur, Kankakee, Joliet, Peoria, Pekin and Quincy.

Need Blood To Make Infantile Paralysis Serum

State Of Illinois Searching For Victims Of Dreaded Disease

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—The state of Illinois tonight searched for former victims of dreaded infantile paralysis for blood which may save the lives of more than 200 persons, mostly children, who are expected to fall prey in the next four weeks to the swiftly striking spinal disease.

The health department issued a general appeal to recovered victims who carried in their veins blood for the serum which is the only known cure for the disease which has swept the state in the last three months, leaving in its wake death and permanent deformities.

Two clinics for donors, one here Thursday, and another next Tuesday at East St. Louis were announced, and Dr. Frank Jirka, health director, said at least 100 donors were needed. From them the state hoped to secure 50 quarts of blood, a supply which the director said "should carry us through October."

He based his estimates for October needs on the present prevalence of the disease and records of previous epidemics. There were 215 new cases in September, he said, and October "generally exceeds September." For the year there have been 318 cases up to last week, compared with 157 a year ago, and less than 300 in 1931 when there was an epidemic of 707 cases.

"For two years we have been preparing for an epidemic similar to that of 1931," he said, "but the present prevalence has gone far beyond our fears. Our supply of serum is exhausted."

The state will pay $10 to each donor, but Dr. Jirka said in clinics earlier this month at Peoria and La Salle many donors "vigorously refused the money in their anxiety to help other victims."

Brooks Declares Farm Land Worth Over $75 An Acre

Republican Candidate For Governor Challenges Statement By FDR

Clinton, Ill., Sept. 29.—(P)—C. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for governor, challenged a statement he attributed to President Roosevelt that "no farm land in the United States today is worth more than $75 an acre" in a campaign talk prepared for delivery here tonight.

"The president," Brooks said, "at a conference with insurance companies urged co-operation with the federal lending agencies in limiting loans on farm land to $25 an acre. Roosevelt stated that good farm land in the United States was not worth more than $75 an acre, and pointed out

The World Series

"Play ball," the umpires shout today, and millions of Americans will turn on radios, gather around bulletin boards, and follow every play as the Giants and Yankees engage in the world series. Ring Lardner called it the "world's serious," which was far from wrong, although grammatically off-color. The world is serious when the best teams of the major leagues come together each fall—serious enough about the nation's leading game that business men are willing to idle away a couple of hours each afternoon, and workers chance a reprimand for soldiering on the job to keep posted on the returns. There is no doubt that America takes its baseball seriously.

The Giants and Yankees have no strangers in their lineup. Bill Terry? Why there are scores of Jacksonville fans who would swear by him. The manager of the Giants is a fine fellow, a real pal, a great strategist, according to these faithful fans who know Bill Terry, but have never met him. They have read of his exploits for years. They feel as if they know him intimately. That is the peculiar thing about baseball—a home run, a two-hit game, a single in the ninth with the score tied, is all the introduction fans need to a player. From then on, he is a personality, catalogued in their minds as a friend or foe, depending on what that particular fan thinks about the team he plays on.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks, Lefty Gomez and all the others of the American league champs have admirers who can tell you their age, height, color of their hair, batting averages from the time they hit the big leagues, and other pertinent facts. The big leagues have no strangers—every player is a living, breathing personality in the lives of millions of fans.

The World Series is the culmination of a summer of sport that affects the lives of the average American man and boy. Ladies' days, also, have added large numbers of women to the ranks of fans. Baseball is no longer a man's game from point of interest. It is everybody's. The World Series is a fine fall tonic that isn't a bit hard to take.

Sims Wasn't Afraid

Admiral William S. Sims, whose death occurred Monday in Boston, wasn't afraid of men. Some of his most bitter battles were fought with the higher-ups of his own government, men who sat back and tried to tell practical seamen what to do, when the trained and experienced officers of the navy knew that their instructions were no good. Like a brave commander when the enemy opened fire on his ship, Admiral Sims shot back. He could not be bulldozed by Washington when he knew he was right about a matter.

The retired naval officer, who commanded the American fleet in European waters during the World War, could have made it far easier for himself by submitting to governmental dictation. But he was a sea-dog at heart, a courageous American, and he didn't want to see the navy suffer at the hands of the inexperienced. Several times during his brilliant career he was near court-martial for outspoken criticisms. His sincerity, however, saved him from that fate. By his expert knowledge of naval affairs and fighting instinct for what he believed right, he usually won the support of his superiors in the end.

Admiral Sims' fearless criticism of national defense is strikingly similar to the scathing barrage of indignation laid down by Major Smedley Butler of the U. S. Marines. Both were fighters—they fought the enemy when occasion demanded, and were not afraid of a fight at home when things went wrong.

America owes a debt of gratitude to Admiral Sims, not only for his brave command of the fleet in time of war, but for his personal courage in time of peace, which led to many reforms and improvements in strength of the United States navy.

Work in Missions

The "Presbyterian" organization of Presbyterian women who met last week in Jacksonville, recalls to the public mind another of the many activities in the organized church of all denominations throughout the world. One of the guest speakers at this recent meeting was a missionary from Kentucky. It is the usual thing to think of a mission in far-away India or Africa, but the realization that relatively primitive civilization exists a few hundred miles from Jacksonville's front door puts a true evaluation on the work done by Christian forces in these places.

Catholic and Protestant men and women have taken medical skill, sanitation and learning to remote corners where their only reward was a bare existence and the privilege of laboring in the shadow of the Cross.

In many cases they have made possible industrial expansion, new markets and the destruction of age old superstitions.

The work of the missionary today is more limited than in the several centuries preceding. Civilization has its own way of piercing every corner of the world with the mail steamer, plane, radio and the talking picture. More than ever this Christian worker must stick to the principles which first sent him to his post. The Church has proven a valuable addition, an indispensable aid, in fact, to the most highly developed sections of the leading nations. Decades of elementary organization remains to be done in every land to bring a church center available to all peoples. This work should be given constant emphasis in the progressive plans of Christian leaders.

Both Sides of the Campaign

BY J. F. T. O'CONNOR
Controller of the Currency

The need for greater safeguarding of bank deposits was never more apparent than during the period from 1921 to 1933, for it was in this twelve-year term that 40 per cent of the nation's banks, 11,457 in number, suspended operations.

Failures of these banks resulted in a tie-up of some five and one-half billion dollars in deposits and distress to millions of depositors and stockholders.

Such a disastrous condition indicated a strong need for changes in our entire banking structure if the remaining banks were to survive.

Many times during the last three years causes for these numerous bank failures have been sought. It should be remembered that out of the total of 11,457 bank failures in the years 1921 to 1933, 5093, or 44 per cent, of these failures occurred prior to the depression years—in other words, they occurred between 1921 and 1929.

I bring out this fact so that it may be better understood that the causes responsible for these innumerable failures were existent over the country for many years preceding the depression.

Further, the factors which prevailed so largely in pre-depression failures were also responsible for the mass of such failures during the depression years.

They differed only in the fact that in the latter years any possibility of retrenchment, which might have saved some of these banks from insolvency, was gone.

First, and possibly the most important of all these causes, was a badly over-banked condition over the country, brought about by a reckless and uncalculated issuance of charters, which led to establishment of many banks which were not needed and which were doomed to failure from the start.

Second, and largely because of the ease with which charters were obtained, was the entrance into the banking field of individuals totally inexperienced in this highly specialized profession.

Third, the wholesale granting of loans based on inflated values.

Fourth, a prevailing spirit of speculation which led to the sacrifice of safety for high yield in the purchase of investment securities.

These are the main factors and all are inseparably linked insofar as the huge disintegration of banks over this twelve-year period is concerned.

Lose Confidence in Banks
The climax was reached in the closing days of the previous administration, namely, in January and February 1933. By that time the people's confidence in the banks had reached such a low ebb that the extremely heavy withdrawals of deposits for hoarding purposes threatened the entire banking structure of the nation.

Conditions became so acute in a number of states as to necessitate prompt action and several governors declared holidays to avoid complete collapse.

This was the situation which faced the new administration on March 4, 1933. One of the first acts of President Roosevelt was the closing by proclamation of all banks of the nation under what has become known as the "Banking Holiday of March, 1933."

The reason for this constructive move becomes more apparent when it is understood that during this period of the banking holiday an exhaustive check was made of the condition of each bank and only those found to be solvent were permitted to reopen.

Thus at one stroke, and within the short period of ten days, was accomplished a weeding out of all insolvent banks, a process which theretofore had been going on intermittently for twelve years.

This was the first step in the program of rehabilitation of the banking structure. Had it stopped at this point no lasting good would have been accomplished.

State Cane Harvest Here Nets Sorghum For Hospital Use

Store 1,131 Gallons; Will Have 240 Turkeys for Thanksgiving Feast

How many acres of flajacks 1,131 gallons of old-fashioned sorghum molasses will cover, is a problem for patients and employees of the Jacksonville State hospital to figure out at breakfast on cold mornings this winter—if they can stop eating long enough to calculate.

Fact is, the farm department at the institution has just completed the molasses harvest. Arthur Layton, the head farmer, saw a chance to produce some good food economically, and he raised cane, 18 acres of it. The institution has its own sorghum mill and evaporator. The result is 1,131 gallons of first quality sorghum, already stored in stone jars in preparation for winter meals. Miss Dorothy Lukeman, hospital dietitian, says that it will require 55 gallons of sorghum for a single meal for the hospital population.

The sorghum has been charged in on the institution books at $1.03 per gallon, or a total of $1,221.48. The expense of production was very small. The cane harvest and molasses making required fifteen days.

Turkeys, Too
Thanksgiving dinner at the hospital this year will not cost taxpayers very much, Mr. Layton says. The farm department is raising 240 turkeys this year, and they are being prepared for the November holiday feast. The experiment of raising turkeys was started last year, and 118 of the 122 turkeys hatched were raised to maturity and used for food. This success led the farm management to enlarge the flock to its present size.

There are now 1,540 head of hogs on the state farms. Thirty sows are due to farrow in October, which will be the last of the pig crop until February. There are 136 brood sows in the herd. The hospital butchers kill 15 to 30 hogs per week for the tables.

Cattle Tested
Dr. O. C. Lummus, state veterinarian, has just completed the testing of the 262 cows in the hospital dairy herd for tuberculosis and contagious abortion. Not one infected animal was found, and the herd has a clean bill of health from the state. Tests of the herd are frequent, and the milk supply is carefully watched.

The milk from each cow is weighed and a record of individual production is kept. The feed rations are also measured, and the cost of feeding each member of the herd is known. Milk production must balance or be greater than the feed cost.

Whenever a cow fails to pay for her keep, her fate is sealed. No mere boarders are allowed in the herd. A cow in the red means more beef on the table. Eighteen steers are now on feed at the hospital, to be used for food as needed.

The Family Doctor

Drainage of Abscess Is Necessary When Infection Is Localized

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

When a wound is infected, the physician will open the abscess, if he is able to find one, to provide drainage of the pus or infectious material that is retained in the tissues.

If, however, the infection is not localized—that is, not accumulated in one place—it may not be desirable to open the area. The care taken after such a wound has been opened and drained, is of the greatest importance.

If the hand or leg is held motionless in a bad position for too long a time, scarring may take place which will make it impossible to move the fingers or toes, and may perhaps cripple the infected individual.

Abscesses affecting the lips and nose are now sometimes treated with the X-ray.

Small wounds are usually treated in the home with some of the common antiseptics. In discussing materials to be included in the family medicine chest, I mentioned tincture of iodine and mercurchrome.

Other antiseptics include the saturated solution of boric acid, hydrogen peroxide, solution of metaphen, and solution of hexylresorcinol, in addition to the solution of Chlorinated soda and cresol. Very strong antiseptics should not be used, except on the advice of a doctor.

Wounds must be washed thoroughly with soap and water. Then the disinfectant may be applied. After that, the wound may be covered with sterile gauze and the gauze suitably fastened to the wound. Sometimes it is best to use adhesive tape. One must be careful, however, in putting a bandage of adhesive tape around a limb. Make certain that the circulation is not greatly cut off as to increase the pain and prevent healing.

No one should attempt to sew a wound unless he has had medical training. If pus or infectious material appears, it should have prompt medical attention.

Some types of wounds represent unusual emergencies. When a small splinter of wood or metal gets into the skin, it is best removed by use of a needle which has been sterilized by being passed through a flame. Large splinters may be removed with a knife blade sterilized in a flame, or with forceps or tweezers, similarly sterilized, if they are available.

When a person is on a camping trip, and a fishhook gets into the skin, it is not wise to attempt to pull out the hook.

To avoid tearing the tissue, it is best to push the point onward and forward and to let the end of the fishhook follow the point. The barbed end of the fishhook may then be cut off with a wire cutter, and the rest of the hook easily withdrawn.

Whenever there is a serious wound of the skin and tissue caused by gunpowder, nails, splinters, or substances which may be contaminated by soil, manure, or clothing, doctors are likely to suggest the immediate injection of some antitoxin against lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is a serious condition with a high rate of fatality. It is better to be safe and take the antitoxin, if there seems to be any danger that the wound has been contaminated with lockjaw germs.

Four-Inch Rainfall Relieves Drought In Jersey County

Potatoes Planted in July
Begin Growing; Kirchner
Funeral Held Tuesday

Jerseyville—The heaviest rainfall of the year fell over the week end in Jersey county. A half inch fell Saturday and Saturday night, an inch and a half was added. Sunday night topped the downpour with another two inches, making a grand total of four inches for the period from Saturday noon until Monday noon. The report of the rainfall was furnished by M. B. Voorhees who keeps a gauge at his home on Barr avenue.

The rain definitely put an end to early wheat sowing, and farmers predicted that it would be a week before wheat ground could be worked, placing the future seeding beyond the recommended date of October 5th.

A considerable acreage was planted before the rain in many sections of the county, and a number of farmers report that they have completed the planting of their crop.

The rainfall filled ponds and cisterns in rural areas where many farmers have been hauling water for several months. The moisture will stimulate the rye crop which many farmers planted for fall pasture the past two weeks.

John Bray of Jerseyville reported Monday afternoon that a patch of potatoes planted in July had come up since the first rain of last week.

"I planted late potatoes early in July," he said, "and they just came up. The vines look mighty thrifty and if frost will stay away until November seventh, I may have some new potatoes."

Orchardists welcomed the heavy rainfall as being sufficient to check the loss of trees from the drought condition which has taken a heavier toll in some orchards than the extensive drought of 1934.

O. C. Kirchner Funeral
Funeral services for Otha O. Kirchner, well known farmer of the Fieldon vicinity, were held at the Jacoby Brothers Chapel Tuesday afternoon, September 29th at two o'clock. Rev. W. A. Steinkraus officiated and interment was in the Grimes cemetery.

Kirchner died at his home near Fieldon Sunday, September 27th, at twelve twenty-five o'clock p. m.

The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Kirchner, natives of Germany. He was born in Jersey county December 15, 1859, and at the time of his death was seventy-six years, nine months and twelve days of age. He had lived his entire life in the community in which he was born.

Surviving the deceased are one daughter, Mrs. Roy Myers of Jerseyville; three sons, Herman Kirchner of Jerseyville; Adolph G. and Attorney Otha H. Kirchner of St. Louis; ten grandchildren, eight great grandchildren and five brothers. His wife, Anna Marie Kirchner and two daughters, Mrs. Alfreda Morgan and Flora Kirchner, preceded him in death.

Gets New Position
Miss Mary Hanes of Jerseyville, has been appointed field supervisor of Woman's Work for the Works Progress Administration in District Number 6, with headquarters in Peoria. In her new position Miss Hanes will be supervisor over twenty-three counties including Jersey. She assumes her duties with WPA on Monday, October 5th.

For the past few months Miss Hanes has served as certifying agent of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission for Jersey and Macoupin counties, with headquarters at Carlinville. As such agent she certified persons for WPA, CCC and NYA appointments in these two counties, upon recommendation of township supervisors under whose direction the present relief program is being conducted. Her successor in that office has not been named.

Local Students to Join in Field Trip Near Alton Oct. 3

Miss Helen Kamm to Head
Party of Students from High School

Representing scores of towns in southwestern Illinois, teachers and others interested in natural science will assemble at Alton next Saturday to participate in the seventh annual earth history field conference of the region.

Miss Helen Kamm, teacher in the general science department at the high school announced Tuesday that a group of students would attend from the local school. According to Miss Kamm, the field trips sponsored by the State Geological Survey have been of great value to pupils each year and well attended.

These groups are led by G. E. Ekblaw, geologist from the State Geological Survey, and will be conducted on all day field study of the geology and geologic history of the area in the vicinity of Alton.

Exposures of bedrock and surface materials reveal that the region boasts a most interesting history, involving numerous submergences by the sea during past ages, as well as warping of the earth's crust, and invasion by tremendous glaciers of the Great Ice Age. The details of this history will be revealed by Dr. Ekblaw through brief lectures at the various stops on the itinerary of the trip.

Professor E. E. List of Shurtleff College, Alton, is serving as organization chairman for the trip. He states that anyone is eligible to attend the conference, since it represents a free, educational extension project of the State Department of Registration and Education.

"All who plan to attend next Saturday," he says, "must join the group before 9 a. m. at the high school building in Alton. Everyone is requested to provide himself with a packed lunch and automobile transportation for the day."

In previous years similar trips have been held in the vicinities of Jacksonville, Springfield, Quincy, Belleville, Carbondale, and Murphysboro. Attendance on these study excursions has averaged more than 150 people. At least that many are expected to be present on the Alton trip next Saturday.

Carrollton Gets Five Inches of Rain

Heavy Precipitation Occurs Over Week-end; Other Greene News

Carrollton—For the first time in over a year, gutters and drain ditches in this city and county were running rivers Saturday and Sunday. A rain which commenced falling about 9 a. m. Saturday, continued until one p. m. and again started at 8 p. m. fell in torrents up to day break Sunday, and continued in heavy showers all thru Sunday. At midnight Saturday over two inches of rain had fallen and at least another inch had fallen at 6 p. m. Sunday. This is practically the first rain of consequence that has fallen here since June 10. Rain poured down all of Sunday night and up to 9 a. m. Monday, a total of about 5 inches had fallen.

News Notes
Guests of Mrs. E. C. Allen Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McCullough of Winchester.

Miss Donna Fay Pegram and Miss Martha Pranger have been employed as secretaries in the WPA farm drouth relief office.

The Linder Home Bureau unit met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lance Kuhlman. The leaders, Mrs. Robert Meldrum and Miss Barbara Kuhlman conducted the lesson, "Assembling An Economist Wardrobe."

The one hundred and twenty-four acre farm of Joseph Kaiser, situated on the east side of U. S. 67, only a short distance south of this city was sold Saturday at a foreclosure sale at the Greene county courthouse by Master-in-Chancery Charles P. Casey for $2,350.00. The purchaser was Michael J. (Bud) Vaughn. This was about $19 per acre and while there is no building on the land, it is considered one of the cheapest buys made here for sometime. Five years ago this land would have brought $100 per acre and although there was little bidding at Saturday's sale, many persons who are well versed in realty values say that the farm would be cheap at $60.00 per acre.

Mrs. Mayme B. Pierson left here Friday for Lake Forest to spend several days with her son, Robert Pierson.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Dodson of Carrollville were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schroeder.

Mrs. Louis Porters of Kampsville, spent Thursday here as the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Lyle D. Stone.

Points to Consider In New Construction Or in Building Over

The parts of a house which are covered by walls and ceilings are just as important, and perhaps more important, than the material which covers them, although it should be the aim of every person who is building or remodeling to put in materials which will stand a lifetime of usage. The wall covers the convenience of a home.

Whether remodeling or building, there are many details to consider before work begins. Plumbing and sewer connections, electric wiring, heating and ventilating systems are all of prime importance in making a home that will be a joy and a pleasure. Nor should persons overlook disposing of rain water and snow.

Nothing could be more disheartening to a person building a modest home than to purchase a lot and find later that there were no sewer and water connections available without making large expenditures. And after being assured that the connections are available, there is nothing as aggravating as a sewer system that gets stopped up, or a water system which does not provide fresh water.

This city has an ordinance which requires plumbers to list all improvements made to homes, and to report the installation of all new fixtures. A city inspector has been appointed for the purpose of protecting the person who has these improvements made, as a means of protecting the health of the person who is to live in the place where the work takes place. There is a small inspection fee which the plumber usually adds to his own fee and pays himself.

There is also a fee for making a sewer connection in a street. This fee varies from $25 for connections made on streets where it is necessary to break through brick pavements, to $150 for an opening in a street which does not have a surface harder than an oiled road. Water connections usually can be made without breaking through the surface of a street.

In order to assure a sewer system which will remove waste matter, it is a wise policy to submit the plans for proposed improvements to plumbers, in order that they can determine whether the proposed sewer system is sufficient for the needs of the house, and whether the system has been designed so that it will do what it is supposed to do.

Plumbers usually do part of their work before the carpenters finish the exterior of the house. They must have the sewer connection completed before the floor of the basement is put down; likewise they usually have the water connection made before construction work begins, because of the necessity of having water available for mixing concrete and plaster.

Heating and ventilating plans should be well prepared before actual construction begins. Some of the ventilating pipes in certain systems

DINING ROOM DECORATIONS PLAY BIG ROLE

A cheerful atmosphere in a dining room is particularly desirable. Even if the sunlight does not enter this important room of the domestic menage, its decoration carefully planned may contribute a pleasing, bright effect.

A dining room recently modernized shows woodwork refinished in ivory, floors scraped, varnished, and waxed. The wainscoting, about one-third the height of the room, furnishes an effective background for the dark finish of the furniture. A scenic wallpaper is used on the remainder of the walls.

Pale blue and green hills and sky are accented by brilliant figures in gay costumes. The resulting room is as cheery as the summer scene portrayed by the paper.

The tiles in the fireplace were a pale green, and this color was carried out with the numerous ferns and plants which the owner placed about the room. On the coldest winter day the room brought to mind pictures of the summer just ahead.

HOME ENTRANCE

Did you ever think your house looked dispirited and dejected? The entrance to a house may change its entire character. A sheltered entrance is a convenience in bad weather for the guest who is waiting for the door to be opened, and it also prevents the rain and sleet from beating in.

UTILITY ROOM

House plans these days often show a utility room. Such a place can provide for an ironing board, mending table, shoe-cleaning equipment, paper and string for wrapping parcels, and the necessary paraphernalia for a dozen other household tasks.

World Series Will Open At Polo Grounds Today; Weather Bad

Sports Writers Favor Yankees

New York, Sept. 29.—(P)—The New York Yankees will win the world series in six games, an Associated Press consensus of newspaper men and baseball officials indicated today. Summarized, the reasoning of the majority was as follows:

The Yankees' power is greater than the wizardry of the Giants' ace pitcher, Carl Hubbell. Yankee batters are long-range hitters and will benefit by the short left and right fields in the Polo grounds. Hubbell may not be effective if it is cold and damp tomorrow, as the weatherman predicts. The minority opinion holds that the prospect of bad weather favors the Giants. Any postponement will give Hubbell another day of rest and with Hubbell on the mound, the Giants hold the upper hand, the minority claims. Furthermore, the Yankees' batting reputation was made against American league pitching which, they claim, is inferior to the National league pitching.

The authors of these opinions and their choices follow:

Alan Gould, sports editor, The Associated Press—"Pitching has generally decided the series, and the Giants, with effective support for Hubbell, figure to win in six games."

John Drebing, New York Times—"The Yanks in four or five. If it goes longer, Hubbell might bring the Giants through." C. E. McBride, Kansas City Star—"I like the Yankees." Dan M. Daniel, New York World-Telegram—"How can you pick anyone but the Yankees?"

Clarence Rowland, Chicago Cubs' scout—"The Giants in six." Harold Burr, New York Post—"I'll bet on the Yanks in six."

Herb Simmons, Chicago Times—"I don't see how the Yanks can lose more than one."

Rud Rennie, New York Herald Tribune—"I don't even think Hubbell can beat the Yanks."

Paul Mickelson, The Associated Press—"The Giants to take first, second, fourth and fifth games."

Arthur E. Patterson, New York Herald Tribune—"I pick Hubbell."

Branch Rickey, general manager, St. Louis Cardinals—"I take the team that wins the first game and I don't think the Yankees can beat Hubbell."

Bill Slocum, New York American—"Yanks in six."

Will Wedge, New York Sun—"The Giants."

Bill Dooly, Philadelphia Record—"Yanks in six."

Max Kase, New York Journal—"Yanks in six."

Chilly Doyle, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph—"Giants in six."

Bob Considine, Washington Herald—"Yanks in five."

Warren Brown, Chicago Herald and Examiner, and James P. Dawson, New York Times—"Yanks in six."

John P. Carmichael, Chicago Daily News—"The Yanks will win four out of five."

Charles Sagar, New York Mirror, and Harry Martinez, New Orleans States—"The Yanks in six games."

Burt Whitman, Boston Herald, Stuart Bell, Cleveland Press, Gerry Moore, Boston Globe, and J. C. Isaminger, Philadelphia Inquirer—"The Yankees in six."

Irving Vaughan, Chicago Tribune, and J. Roy Stockton, St. Louis Post Dispatch, and Al Horwitz, Philadelphia Evening Ledger—"Yanks in six."

Stuart Rogers, New York Daily News—"The Yanks will win in five games."

J.H.S. Grid Card Is Expanded One Game

Girard Will Come Here This Saturday for Added Game; Others Away

Jacksonville high's football schedule has grown to 11 games as the result of scheduling Girard for a game here this Saturday. Coach Frank Walker announced that all of the details have been completed for the game, and that Coach C. F. Hubbell will bring his stalwarts here for a game to be called at two o'clock.

The Crimson will have the football spotlight to themselves locally, for Illinois School for the Deaf will be over in Indiana playing the school for the deaf there, and Illinois College's Blueboys will be at Bloomington, locking horns with Illinois Wesleyan in their first conference game of the year.

This Saturday originally was listed as an open date on the Crimson schedule, but because of the insistence of the players that they be given some competition this week-end, Coach Walker agreed to play Girard. Coach Hubbell had the date open and also has a date in November he would like to fill.

The game is the first home game for the Crimson, who battled Pittsfield's Indians to a scoreless tie and dropped a 26 to 0 decision to Beardstown last week-end. All of the players came through the Beardstown game in good shape, and the coach has been working on smoothing out wrinkles in the offense and in developing the blocking to a point where it will be more efficient.

Coach S. Robey Burns was a bit disappointed when his Tigers were rained out of their opening game with Converse high of Springfield Monday night for the second time. It seems that the Tiger chief will have to put his squad into the game with the Indiana school without previous game experience.

McCarthy Will Start Ruffing

New York, Sept. 29.—(P)—The door leading to the Yankee dressing room at the Polo Grounds flew open and in strode Joe McCarthy puffing a big cigar. Sports writers jumped off trucks like a flock of monkeys in a zoo and hemmed in the Yankee boss.

"Who you gonna pitch in the opener, Joe?" asked a chorus of voices.

McCarthy's eyes twinkled mischievously as he walked over to Lefty Gomez, the man every expert figured would be the human "Yankee sacrifice" against the great Carl Hubbell.

"Ruffing," the square-jawed master of the Yankee gunners said finally. The sports writers were amazed.

Some couldn't believe McCarthy would start his ace right hander against a man like Hubbell. They asked McCarthy again and again.

"What's the Yank commander, 'is Hubbell so good that I have to explain why I am going to use a certain pitcher? Look at his record. No sir, we're not giving anything away in this show. All right, I'll give you another reason: With Red pitching, we'll have another good hitter in there."

As Gomez, the erratic southpaw, looked on a bit sadly, the sports writers argued with McCarthy and surrounded the quiet, husky Ruffing.

"No, Joe isn't kidding you," he said, with a tinge of sadness. "He never fools when he nominates a pitcher. I'll start all right. And this bunk about me being a 'sacrifice' for Hubbell is tiresome. Why, when I step out on that mound, I'll feel just like a young kid with eight of his big brothers around him. Am I tough!"

As the writers prodded him, the big Yankee red head, whose hair is more sandy than red, told how an accident made a pitcher out of him. As a boy, he worked in the coal mines at Nokomis, Ill. While running cars in the mine, he slipped and lost four toes on his right foot beneath the wheels.

"I was set to be a first baseman in the Kitty League when that happened," he recalled, "but because I couldn't run I became a pitcher. So, I lost four toes and baseball got another pitcher."

Ruffing said he had "my own system" for hitting Hubbell, that he'd get eight hours sleep tonight and eat a breakfast of poached eggs, toast and coffee before "walking the last mile."

Happy Gus Mancuso, the little human catching machine, who directs Hubbell's fire, was the first giant to the ball park. As he hustled around, he said the Giants were "in."

"We'll give 'em Hubbell tomorrow, Schumacher Thursday, Fitzsimmons Friday and a guy named Hubbell Saturday," he predicted. "That ought to be poison enough for 'em. Don't forget I said Schumacher. The other day against Boston, he showed me more stuff than he ever had. After tossing me a couple, he came over chucking and told me he wanted to throw nothing but fast balls into that slot. And did he shoot 'em in!"

"Gosh, Hal was marvelous," chimed in Bill McKechnie, manager of the Boston Bees.

Frosh Find Varsity Line Bit Tougher

Blueboys Get Ready to Open Conference Card At Wesleyan Saturday

Illinois College's freshmen grid-players found the varsity line a bit tougher yesterday afternoon as Coach Ray Nussipkele doled out a long practice session to get the boys in shape for the conference opener at Illinois Wesleyan this Saturday. The yearlings tackled the varsity with their running plays late in the afternoon.

The Blueboy coach had worked long and hard on individual blocking, tackling, and defensive play.

Somewhat stiff after their game with the Washab Little Giants, all of the varsity players were able to answer roll call yesterday after going through a light signal practice Monday to loosen the bruised muscles.

The fine spirit which buoyed the team through the first two weeks of the practice season seemed to have slipped a little at the start, but as the stiffness wore off, the spirit returned.

Dissatisfied with the defense in the Washab game, Coach Nussipkele spent over an hour going over line play before calling in the yearlings for a scrimmage session. Allan Paterson, a Chicago boy who has been on the outside looking in at the varsity, thus far, suddenly found himself near a varsity position as the result of his ability on defense. A big six footer, Paterson was one of the few men on defense who was able to break through the toughest combination the Blueboy coach was able to find among the offensive players.

Paterson may get a chance to do some of his work in the Wesleyan game if he continues at the pace he set yesterday. Otherwise the line-up for the first conference game will remain the same as it was for the game with Washab.

Freshmen found that they have a lot of work to do on their plays before they will be ready for competition. Coach Willis Munger has the boys working much more smoothly than they were last week, but the heavier varsity team stopped their running attack at the line of scrimmage consistently.

Work of 48 students is in the display which includes oil paintings, water color paintings, pencil, pen and ink, and charcoal drawings, and architectural drawings. Twenty mounts show work of the department of art, and 14 work from the department of architecture.

Swine Market Is Steady to Higher

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—The hog market today gave definite indications that the September break in swine and pork values had been checked. Following up yesterday's strong market, prices again today were steady to 15 cents higher and top was pushed up to $10.45, or 20 cents above last week's low point. Current hog prices, however, are almost $1 below a year ago.

The market's strength so far this week has been derived principally from the fact that producers have applied the brakes to the volume of marketings. Both yesterday and today receipts were below advance estimates.

A contributing strengthening influence has been the stiffening of wholesale pork prices, indicating, livestock men said, a freer movement of this meat into consumption as a result of recent sharp price concessions. Advancing 1 cent a pound yesterday, pork loin cuts were steady today in most markets. Beef carcass prices remained unchanged at wholesale.

Cattle and sheep shared in the hog market strength. Killing classes of beef were strong to a shade higher and in instances 10 to 15 cents up all thru the list. With weighty steers having recovered the most losses, fed yearlings were selling at higher prices than the crop. Considering quality best fed steers brought $10.50 and yearlings $10.25.

Fat lambs opened strong but closed rather slow and about steady. The top for natives was $9.85.

Stock Traders Are Cautious

New York, Sept. 29.—(P)—The play was rather ragged in today's stock market and buyers took chances only with highly selective issues.

Light profit taking was in evidence throughout the quiet session as traders cleared the way for sideline positions on the theory the European currency devaluation move may bring later repercussions on securities.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues recorded a net loss of 1.1 of a point at 68. Transfers totaled 1,381,800 shares against 1,450,360 yesterday. Of 834 equities traded 349 declined, 309 advanced and 176 were unchanged.

Brokers with foreign connections reported little or no selling from abroad.

Utilities generally reflected hopes of good tidings from the conference at Washington tomorrow between representatives of the Tennessee Valley authority and private southern power interests.

Union Motors and Automotive Equipment stocks were quite lively on the strength of earnings and dividend prospects. Several sugars took a turn for the better as the Holly company voted an extra in addition to the regular payments on its common and preferred.

The Rails slipped along in a restricted area notwithstanding the generally bright outlook for carriers. Freight loadings for last week, to be officially published Friday, were estimated at around 800,000 cars, the largest total since November, 1930.

There was little inspiration in the major Motor and Steel shares. Down fractions to a point or more were Chrysler at 122 1/2, General Motors 69, U. S. Steel 70 1/2 and Bethlehem 68 1/2.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN

Looking ahead to next winter the bureau finds that the short harvest of feed grains, the high prices of feed grains, and the somewhat smaller number of milk cows on farms compared to last year, are the principal factors governing the outlook for production. Good school work may be affected by lunch box desserts. So answers Miss Glenna Henderson, home economics extension specialist in foods, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, as homemakers come to her to receive ideas on economical and healthful desserts for the dinner table.

Sleepiness and listlessness after lunch, which dulls the mind and makes studying difficult, is only a natural physical reaction if the school child has eaten a heavy lunch, she explains. A large portion of the blood leaves the head and goes to the stomach to help digest the food. Therefore one is not as alert mentally as he would be if the lunch were lighter.

Rich pies and cakes are the favorite offenders, she finds. A few simple tricks would make the lunch equally appetizing and less harmful to the health. Children are poor food pickers, she continues. They will discard the food best for them for that which is filling and appetizing. But homemakers may solve the problem by making simple desserts appealing to the eye and appetite.

Sweets in the form of cookies, sponge cake or unfrosted cup cakes not only fit into the child's dietary regime better, but also arrive at school in better condition, she points out. A heart-shaped cookie or a roll-polly gingerbread man can make the difference between the ordinary and the interesting lunch. Even an occasional piece of candy is not prohibited.

The returning popularity of the dinner pail opens an even wider field of desserts, in Miss Henderson's opinion. Canned fruits, stewed dried fruits, salads, rice pudding, custards, cereal puddings, junkies, gelatins, tapioca puddings made with milk, cornstarch puddings, cottage cheese and other semi-soft foods may be carried in jelly glasses with tops or in screw-top jars and will arrive at school without damage.

Another dessert made with material Henderson uses 4 to 5 slices of stale bread using 1 1/2 cups of flour, 1 cup of sugar, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 egg beaten, 1 cup of water or sour milk, 1 cup of molasses and 1 cup of melted lard.

Sift all dry ingredients; stir the combined eggs and liquid ingredients into the dry ones. Bake in a greased pan 1 1/2 inches deep in a moderately slow oven (350 degrees F.) about 40 minutes.

Soak the bread in milk. Add the beaten egg and sugar. Add raisins. Bake in a greased dish in a moderate oven (400 degrees F.) until thickened and brown over the top. Raisins or grated orange peel may be added if desired. Serve alone or with milk. (No. 3 in successful lunch series. No. 4 will appear in the Journal and Courier Thursday.)

July Wheat Is 2 Cents Lower

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(P)—Nearly 2 cents a bushel break in July wheat prices today more than overcame an earlier general advance of 1 to 1 1/2 cents.

Extreme weakness of July wheat resulted from speculative selling induced by favorable weather for the new domestic winter crop. Most of the United States winter wheat belt received additional rains today, and the new crop going into the ground is favored by unusually auspicious conditions.

Reports were current that throughout southwest and west sections of domestic winter crop areas the indications point to greatly increased seeding, some districts expanding seeded acreage as much as 50 percent.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 11 lower, Dec. 113 1/2-114, May 111 1/2-112, July 98 1/2-99, 1-8 advanced, Dec. 95 1/2-96, May 90-90 1/2, July 86 1/2, oats 8 off, Dec. 41 1/2, and rye 1-11 down. In provisions, results were unchanged to 10 cents up.

Selling pressure on July wheat contracts here did not develop until after a burst of strength had followed unexpected jumps of 21 cents in Liverpool wheat quotations, together with something of an upturn in sterling. Cables said rains reported in Australia were only light, and that general heavy rains are urgently needed. Not all of the Liverpool advance, however, was held, today's close at Liverpool showing but 3-11 cents gain.

Meanwhile, pronounced weakness of Chicago July wheat carried that delivery to more than 13 cents under May.

CAN ENJOY MAYTAG HELPFULNESS

For twenty-two years, farm homes have enjoyed the convenience of Maytag washers. Maytag was the first self-powered washer for homes without electricity. But there are other reasons why Maytag's the preferred farm washer. Its square cast-aluminum tub is roomier, and more convenient—the Gyrtator water action washes faster, cleaner, more gently. The Roller Water Remover has an enclosed, self-reversing drain. Investigate the Maytag, its reasonable cost and easy payment plan.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KAY DUNN, pretty airplane stewardess, falls in love with TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the trans-Pacific route.
Ted has two interests in life—his job and DICKIE, his adopted son, 7 years old. When Ted asks Kay to marry him, she fears it is merely to make a home for Dickie, but she agrees.

She does not agree, though, with Ted's theories that marriage, to be successful, must be planned scientifically, just as a plane flight. She is rebellious because he insists her housekeeping must be carried on in the same way, with charts and budgets.

They have their first quarrel when Kay hears that Ted has lectured MONTE BLAINE, another pilot. Kay believes it is because she and Monte went dancing together.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII
THE first quarrel of Kay's and Ted's married life ended in a reconciliation, but it left its mark. Ted promised to spend more time at home when he was in port and Kay agreed she had not meant her angry words. But the conflict was still in their hearts. Kay knew it and Ted knew it. She could see it in his eyes when he kissed her goodby before his next trans-Pacific flight.

For several days after he had gone she was strangely quiet. She would sit for hours, gazing across the distant reaches of the bay. Finally, after a struggle, she took up life again as it had been in the little house on the sands.

Monte Blaine seemed to avoid Kay. He had received his promotion from apprentice pilot to pilot, and everybody was pleased. Throughout the spring nothing disturbed the tranquility of the colony except the occasional ripples of gossip at bridge.

In this way a rumor reached Kay's ears, third or fourth hand, that Ted had been seen in Honolulu with a foreign girl called Illah.

It was, Kay felt sure, the same Illah she had met on her honeymoon in the Orient almost a year before. The news was not reassuring to a lonely wife's peace of mind.

But Kay laughed off the tale. Doris had repeated it to her before some others, and Kay tried resolutely to show them that she wasn't a silly, jealous woman.

"That's a long grind at the controls, from port to port," she said. "Of course Ted dances at the hotels when he is in port. Why shouldn't he? He has to stay keen for his work."

"And what about the wife's job at home?" Doris said, laughing. "Doesn't she have to have relaxa-

Local Relief Funds Not Considered in State Distribution

New System Announced Tuesday; Cash Balance Low, Supervisor Says

Chicago—(AP)—State funds to meet relief needs were certified to Illinois counties Tuesday under a new system. Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, announced.

"Prior to this time," Lyons said, "the commission has taken into consideration available local funds in fixing the needs of the state governmental units. Today, however, we shall act in accordance with regulations recently enacted by the state legislature making the need of the units the sole consideration."

ered possible receipts from sales of warrants issued against a special 20-cent relief levy as available local funds, and also regarded cash balances of various relief funds in Stephenson, Rock Island and other counties as sources of relief cash.

L. B. Turner, county relief supervisor, interpreted the IERC statement from Chicago to mean that local relief funds would not now affect the quota to be allotted by the state. The Morgan county fund has been gradually depleted until it is now of little consequence. The county relief agency expects to receive about $4,500 from the state for the month of October.

Money has been received from the new pauper tax here, but the cash balance with which the new administration began its work is now very low and not sufficient to be considered in fixing state quotas. The relief load in the county remains about the same. Crop failures due to drought have brought some serious situations among the rural population.

Floyd Priest of Winchester was included in the number of visitors in the city yesterday.

Percy Wallace was a local caller yesterday from White Hall.

Restoration Of Game Discussed At Alexander Meet

Sportsman's Club Hears Talks On Plans For Work in County

Alexander, Sept. 29.—Restoration of game is the big problem confronting sportsmen in this state, two speakers agreed here tonight at a booster meeting sponsored by the Alexander Sportsman's club, and after restoration begins, there is time to think of conservation.

Lewis Martin, a representative of the state department of conservation, and Judge Walter W. Wright, chairman of the legislative commission of the state federation of sportsman's clubs, addressed the gathering of about 75 men in the basement of the Methodist church here Tuesday night, telling of their work in the interests of both birds and fish.

Following the meeting, over which K. V. Bearup, president of the Alexander club presided, approximately 30 new members joined the organization. Representatives of the Jacksonville and Murrayville chapters were present at the meeting.

Both speakers stressed the necessity of forming an organization to aid in both restoration and conservation of game, and to provide the state organization with the power it needs to obtain legislation favorable to conservation. Judge Wright pointed out that the organization is non-political and that one of its aims is to take the department of conservation out of politics.

Work of Clubs.
Mr. Martin, in his talk, pointed out the vast amount of work that sportsman's clubs have done in the east to restore game. There are more beaver being trapped, more deer being shot, and more fish caught in Pennsylvania now than during the revolutionary days, he said, largely as the result of the sportsman's clubs.

The state department is working out a plan by which it will release game birds immediately after they are hatched to sportsman's club where the clubs are equipped to handle the birds. This will accomplish two purposes, he pointed out. The state department will not be required to spend as much money for feed, which is a big item, he said, and will allow the state department to spend more of its time in raising birds for distribution than is permissible under the present system. He estimated that the department could triple or quadruple its output of quail, and at least triple its pheasant output, if sportsman's clubs were organized to handle the distribution of birds.

Game Conditions.
Recalling the excellent game conditions which existed in the Alexander community when he was a boy, Judge Walter Wright told of some of the aims of the legislative committee of the state organization. He related that the proposed change in the game code, asked last year in the legislature, was defeated through the efforts of the organization of County and City Clerks, who opposed the legislation because it was proposed to cut out the 25 percent of the license fee which these officers retain as their fee for issuing the licenses. The department of conservation is supported almost entirely from license fees, he said, and stated that the department received about $285,000 from license fees last year.

The immediate aim of the legislative committee is to remove the department from politics, and to set up a non-partisan board with rotating membership in order to preserve its non-partisan nature. The legislative commission also will present a new game code this year, which the speaker said he believed would be enacted.

A system whereby the state department will have the authority to close certain areas to hunting when the stock becomes depleted, is being sought now to circumvent a clause in the state constitution which prevents the legislative body from delegating its authority to any group.

Judge Wright closed his talk by pointing out that by providing game and fish, the sportsman's clubs not only are providing for pleasure, but they also are contributing to better citizenship by providing a means of recreation for youths who otherwise might form criminal habits.

Carroll Hughes has been selected to play the part of the famous character, Moses, in the presentation of "The First Commandment," to be given at the Central Christian church on the evenings of October 5 and 6. The character, Moses, portrays the most dramatic scenes of the entire production.

Mr. Hughes will be supported by Claude Gustine as Heron, the brother of Moses. This is another outstanding character. Other characters in the scene are Carter Clark, playing the part of Joshua, a soldier of the Israelite nation. The old man of the tribe, Kohath is played by Henry Wright, and other important characters are played by Harry Hutchins as Helon and Verle Glassner as Malchiah.

There are an number of important women characters in this scene. Miriam, the sister of Moses and Heron is played by Mrs. Harry Hutchins. She leads the group in rejoicing and singing the thanksgiving for the deliverance from the Red Sea.

Mabel Biggs Watts, Dorothy Rimmely, Mrs. Charles Fulton and Mrs. Lorraine Strubinger play the part of the Levite women.

Another beautiful scene in the production is that of the Nativity. The principal characters in this scene are Mrs. Leon Herdin playing the part of Mary, Leon Herdin, Rev. M. M. Blair, Al Yording, Rev. Mr. Richards and Virgil Gibbs playing the parts of the shepherds who came to see the new born babe on the first Christmas night. R. McPherson, Robert Carlson and Mrs. Braxton play the three Kings of the orient. These three people sing solos in the production. Mrs. Hermine Wolff who has had years designing Biblical costumes designed the garments to be used here.
